CASE OF LEW. BAKER. Judge Roosevelt being, it is said, for a day or two absent, the Court was opened by Judge Corlies.

The District Attorney was present. In answer to a question from the Judge as to whether any other indictments against the defendant were pending, the District Attorney said he proposed to commence the trial of Lew. Baker on Monday next.

The other indictments against the defendant were pending, and would move that, beside retaining the present panel, two hundred and fifty additional jurors be summoned for that day.

Mr. Whiting, he said, in the last trial, they have not had time to consult and arrange as to the case of Baker, but they will be ready to commence with the trial on Monday. It will occupy, he thought, at any rate, the best part of a week, and their Honor the Judges might consider in arranging for the General Term, and other matters. The Judge granted the order for a new panel as requested.

The counsel for Baker are Mr. Horace F. Clarke and Gen. Nye. Mr. Hoffman (Attorney General) and Mr. Whiting are associated with Mr. Hall (District Attorney) for the prosecution. It is understood that the jury will be kept together till the trial is terminated.

THE RICHMOND INQUIRY.—It is said that there will be a handsome surplus in the State Treasury of Virginia, after paying the January interest upon her bonds.

The La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad is completed and ready to run. The company has already received 6,000 tons of iron, costing $422,230, and have enough on hand to complete the track to Beaver Dam.

The Evening Journal has announced that Mr. A. B. Bristow is the author of the article in The Herald published on the 17th inst. regarding the Central Railroad.

There has been bad management or something wrong in the Indiana Bank Department, as there are notes of the following banks still outstanding, while all the securities in the Department have been sold, and the proceeds used up in redemptions, viz: Bank of America, Morocco; Drivers Bank, Rome; Government State Bank, Lafayette; Merchants Bank, Lafayette; Merchants Bank, Springfield; Perry County Bank, Carrollton; Public Stock Bank, Newport; State Stock Bank, Logansport; State Stock Security Bank, Newport; Washburn River Bank, Jasper; New York Stock Bank, Vincennes.

At Boston the money market is still stringent. One of the banks is reported to have drawn $150,000 in coin from New-York. The Journal says:

Reports prejudicial to the Grocers' Bank were in circulation 10 days ago. The facts, as we gather from the last authorities, are substantially that the Grocers' Bank has extended its loans too far, and in the general drain of specie to which our Banks have been subjected during the last two or three weeks, has found itself unable to apply to the other Banks for temporary assistance. The bank had a large amount of specie in its vaults, but the amount of the loan was too large, and the bank was unable to meet its obligations.

The account of the retiring Cashier has been examined, and found correct. The whole matter is being investigated, and it is believed that the condition of the bank is sound; that the loans are of good character; and that no apprehensions need be entertained by the public in regard to the safety of its funds. P. E. Kingman, esq., has resigned the office of Cashier, and Mr. F. W. Prudden has been appointed in his stead.

Butter in potatoes run considerable risk in buying in large quantities, in consequence of the drought, which is quite prevalent, and from the fact the high price of the winter wheat is looked for.

Butter has advanced 10¢. It is, in consequence, it is said, of scarcity. This can hardly seem possible as the Fall season has been one of the best for many years for raising. State Butter is held at 25¢ and Orange County at 31¢ and 1¢. Dealers are disappointed at the advance of Orange County Butter to a figure beyond 40¢. It being during the coming winter.

Polish, Meats and Fish have experienced but little change in price during several weeks past. The closing of canal navigation will be a signal for a general advance of market produce.
